

Connected Components in a Social Network

Each colored cluster represents a connected component — a group of people who are mutually reachable within the network but not connected to other groups. This illustrates how connected components reveal distinct social communities.

Connected Components in a Social Network

